- Q. Yes.

A. I believe that there were conference calls about the clearinghouses. I think they may have been scheduled for Saturday or Sunday, and the arrangements that were going to be made and the transfers, and I believe that representatives from Lehman were on those calls. I cannot recall specifically, either the specific discussions or exactly when they occurred.

- Q. Do you recall any discussion concerning margin at DTCC?
- A. Discussing margin at DTCC? Well, there were discussions about the DTC accounts and how they were going to be handled, and those accounts would have included both proprietary positions, customers' positions, positions that may have been margined, and so indirectly, all of those discussions with DTC potentially included discussions about margin, to the extent that that was relevant.
- Q. Any express reference to margin? Margin coming up in any express way in any conversation with DTC that you remember?
- A. Well, in the sense that to the extent that anything constituted margin that was in there and the discussions covered those accounts, yes. But I don't remember us specifically singling out margin as a topic.

Q. And do you recall any specific such conversations?

A. Well, there were negotiations between the parties about the business, so if you're saying that I'm taking the FCM business and if that business includes positions that are traded on foreign markets, then by definition you're talking about them as part of the same thing. If you are taking that business and customer and other deposits associated with them and assets associated with that business, then yes, you are talking about the margin indirectly, although you may not be specifically singling it out.

Q. That's what I want to do. I want to single it out.

Do you recall a specific singling out, a specific mention of either margin or guarantee suggested that if there was a concern along those lines, which we didn't share -- and I'll say only, my recollection is there was a question raised about it -- that we say to the extent permitted by applicable law and as soon as practicable after the closing.

And because the provision by its terms then raised a question about whether or not this value was going to be conveyed, because the reason this was in here and was the subject of discussion was that there was a significant erosion or concern about the erosion of value and assets that were contemplated to be delivered initially but were not available to be delivered, and that Lehman identified this as a source of value, and so we wanted to make sure that that value was conveyed.

And so as a result of this language, it made us think, well, fine, if you can't give us these 769 million of securities, give us those other securities of a similar nature and value.

That's my recollection of the origins of this provision.

Q. I'll show you a document we have previously marked as Exhibit 451. Have you seen that before, sir?

A. I don't recall that I necessarily saw precisely this. I do recall that there was a representation made that the SEC had approved as excess a certain level of value and that there was an e-mail. We thought that we were going to see an e-mail saying that. Instead, there was an e-mail, I recall, but which didn't involve -- didn't come from the SEC, but reported that it was approved.

I don't think I have seen this particular document, and I can't say that I recall with precision the numbers for the allocations between cash and securities.

Q. Did you ever discuss Lehman's 15c3 account with Mike Macchiaroli?

A. I don't recall being able -- at the time that I sort of first saw this, which I believe was on a -- or not this -- I was made aware of the e-mail and shown something, I do not believe that I spoke to Mike Macchiaroli, but as I mentioned at the outset of this, I had TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

So I did not have a -- I did not have a -- I did not have a confirmation from him. I didn't have a concern that there would be a deficiency, but I did not have an opportunity to actually go over this with him.

Q. So in your earlier conversation with Mr. Macchiaroli, he was optimistic that there would be sufficient assets available to pay all customer claims: is that correct?

A. Yeah. That -- well, I don't think he would have -- I don't think he would have -- I don't mean to put words in his mouth that he would have made a representation to those effects, but I came away with an impression that he was optimistic that there wouldn't be a shortfall.

Q. And he didn't tell you to what extent there would be any excess?

A. We didn't discuss any quantification.

Q. Did you have any discussions with anyone at the SEC concerning the reserve account or any excess in the reserve account?

MR. MORAG: Objection, asked and answered.

A. I don't recall.

Q. Now, you were responding to a Weil question. Was it Harvey Miller who said can we do it?

I don't think it was an ultimatum. I think people wanted to get the deal done, but I think there was a concern that letting another business cycle go by was just because we didn't know what was going to happen. I think this was the weekend where we had learned very late Sunday night that, you know, Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs had quite expeditiously become banks and people were worried and the hurry to do that was no doubt in part due to concerns. So I wouldn't say that it was a drop dead or an ultimatum or anything like that. It

The second part of your answer in 3 3 week, after they had -- after Monday, the first terms of your role, where you got involved with 4 objective was to perform independent valuations Operations to provide some support around the 5 for any derivative transactions we had with the 5 assets that were coming over from Lehman as part 6 6 firm. Barclays was at risk in any derivative of the purchase transaction, describe for me who 7 7 transactions that we had. We had to make sure it was that got you involved in that. Who asked you to become involved? Who from Operations? 8 8 that they were valued correctly. 9 9 So we were focusing in interest rate A. Marcus Morton and James Walker within 10 swaps and credit derivatives within my team 10 Product Control asked me to get a better 11 where Lehman would have been the counterparty. 11 understanding of what was happening from an 12 12 I was consolidating that data, and then, by the operations perspective. Q. Now, Mr. Walker, where does he fit 13 13 end of the week, my function turned more into 14 focus on working with Operations to determine 14 into the Product Control or Independent 15 the assets which were going to be brought 15 Valuation Division or structure of the bank? 16 16 onboard I believe we had the Friday and then the A. I believe at the time he was CFO. I 17 17 can't remember his exact title. Monday. 18 18 Q. So he would be someone that Mr. Morton Q. In the first part of your answer you 19 19 talked about providing some support in would report up to? 20 20 connection with derivatives positions where A. Yes. 21 21 Lehman was the counterparty. Those were not O. Were the others from Product Control 22 transactions or assets that were being acquired 22 and from Independent Valuation who would be 23 as part of the transaction; those were deals on 23 working with you, were you leading that effort 24 on the part -- on the side of Product Control 24 with Lehman, existing deals? 25 25 A. If we were to bring it back to auction, it's very difficult to say if that would be the same scenario. Q. Well, when you did bring it back to auction, did the Giants default on the interest obligations? A. No, they did not. Q. And when you brought it back to

Why would you take an asset Q. Did you do that? I understand you think it's illogical. Did you do that? A. It's illogical. Q. So you didn't do it? A. If you were going to look at something that was selling versus something that's not selling, it doesn't work. Q. So you didn't do it? A. No. Nothing with a double C was about to trade on the street. If I were to do that, I would be looking at something that's triple A. That would not reflect these assets. Q. What was the credit rating for the Giants the issuer itself? A. That I do not recollect. As far as you know, at any point had the Giants Stadium issuer failed to make interest payments on any of these bonds? A. Not that I'm aware of. Q. The wrap, the monoline A. There would have been no reason for them to at that point as well because the rates were set artificially low by Lehman if they were not bringing it to market. So if you were not paying the market rate, then there was limited reason for you to not pay your coupon. No. Q. Where they basically said to you that's not their job, that's your job? A. That's any discussions of that nature would not happen at my level, to be honest. I was performing the independent valuations. (Deposition Exhibit 869, a document bearing Bates Nos. BCI-EX-(S)-00207919 through 920, with attachment, marked for identification, as of this date.) Q. I've had placed before you, sir, a document marked Exhibit 869. It's an e-mail exchange that you are involved in. It has a spreadsheet attached to it which has been printed out from the native format. Take a minute to look at it. I'll ask you some questions about it.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	Teague my view. I don't think at the time, I think there was changes made, being made to this document, but then over the coming weeks, you see this format, which is our document. Q. Okay. Let me ask you some questions about it. A. Sure. Q. So the cover e-mail, e-mails, are as of October 10, 2008. Do you see that? A. Yes. Q. And what you were just saying is this is a work in progress that evolves over time and takes on the format that we see in 86B and 87B, right? A. Yes. Q. What I want to draw your attention to is the last page of this exhibit, which is the printout of the Summary tab from the spreadsheet. There's a little footer you will see that says "Summary." A. Okay.

Page 194 Page 195 1 1 Teague Teague 2 2 What did you mean by "overrides"? just be I don't think this is to clarify 3 A. Well, for -- so the rows 12, 14 and 3 anything to do with the opening balance sheet, 4 4 18, 14 doesn't look like there's anything there, per se, as much as we were trying to get the 5 5 to be honest, and 18 looks like there's nothing desk values for September 30th. I mean, they're 6 there. So I'm not quite sure. I guess it means 6 sheets of both, but the commentary is regarding 7 7 the September 30th numbers. this page, but again, looking up at the 8 spreadsheet, row 12 has PMTG positions in there, 8 Q. Okay. And at some point you end up 9 9 taking those September 30th numbers for purposes and then -- sorry, rows 14 and 18, those cells for column F are blank. So I can't provide any 10 of the acquisition balance sheet, correct? 10 11 clarity since two of the three are blank. 11 A. For, yes, for PMTG, it would be 12 12 O. Well, let's see if it refers to some their -- the desk would be marking those assets 13 that are listed on the Lehman opening balance 13 other sheet -- tab in the spreadsheet. I just 14 want to get an understanding of what you meant 14 sheet, Barclays Capital Valuation Methodology 15 by "overrides for PMTG." 15 document. 16 16 What is it that PMTG is overriding? Q. On the next bullet point in your cover 17 e-mail, you state, "Corporate marks represent 17 The books and records or some other entity? 18 mid marks as supplied by corporate desk," and 18 A. It would have been, I take it, their 19 19 pricing that they are putting in for September then (traders are no longer with the firm)." Do 20 30th. Again, the analysis is regarding the, if 20 you see that? 21 A. They were all let go. All the 21 you look at the next section, it's just a desk 22 22 marking values for September 30. I take it, as Barclays traders were let go post Lehman 23 all of assets had not been booked yet, they 23 acquisition and they, specifically, in the 24 Corporate Investment Grade and High-Yield Desks, 24 potentially just put in marks. 25 So, apologies. The logic here would 25 we -- the firm took on the high-yield traders Page 196 Page 197 Teague 1 1 Teague 2 records that they have already acquired. 2 and --3 Q. From Lehman? 3 So day one is day one. They were 4 4 A. -- and investment grade traders from making sure day two, day three, day four, the 5 6 5 firm weren't losing a lot of money and the Lehman. So the individuals responsible for 6 marking those positions were no longer with the positions already on our balance sheet be it 7 7 firm or were no longer responsible for marking through the Lehman acquisition or positions we 8 8 already had. From the Lehman's traders' the books. 9 9 Q. But you had, as part of the perspective, they were all given brand-new 10 10 acquisition, taken over the traders, the books, if you look at it that way, so they had 11 11 high-yield traders from Lehman, correct? to determine how to value their own books and 12 12 A. Correct. how to hedge their own positions. 13 Q. Why were they not a resource to ask 13 Q. I'm trying to understand then your 14 questions of with respect to the marking of the 14 next observation on that same bullet point. "No 15 corporate bonds? 15 asset level marks received to substantiate PMTG 16 A. I think the biggest thing for the firm 16 Corp. MV." Do you see that? 17 as far as time well spent was to ensure that 17 A. So at that moment we didn't have the, 18 individuals were properly hedging any of the 18 I take it, in that much earlier question of what 19 risk that the firm already had on its books and 19 positions we would have had on the books, we 20 20 wouldn't have had no asset level marks received records, so the breakdown was mostly we were 21 working -- you know, we weren't working alone, 21 to substantiate the PMTG corporate market value. we reached out to other people to get additional 22 We didn't have any levels from the desk for 23 information where necessary, but the reliance 23 those positions. So we had --24 24 was not on the desk to perform the valuations Q. So if you had no level from the desk for those positions, what would you use? because the desk was busy hedging the books and 25

12	you?	12	was conducted by thousands of traders, so it was
13	A. I have not seen it before.	13	not as though there was one person with a giant
14	Q. Then the next sentence in Gerry Reilly's	14	brain sat at the centre of this re-marking process
15	e-mail starts off by saying: "We can track our	15	who had understanding or an ability to re-mark all

5	interpretation of where the market is.	5	do any of the marking of the prices, right?
6	You have to add to that the fact that	6	A. Absolutely not.
7	the holding company had filed and so the coverage	7	Q. That is not something you do?
8	of the desks was also impaired. I don't think	8	A. No.
9	that there would be every trader turning up and	9	Q. You don't know specifically what traders
10	re-marking his book. So there was great	10	marked down what prices for what reason, correct?

13	added to the complexity here.	13	pursuant to price movements in the market or
14	So my interpretation here is that the	14	because they were allocated a block discount?

In the first meeting, as would be 12 13 typical, we kind of, in an introduction to 13 Q. Can you tell us what this is? 14 14 A. This is an e-mail written to the Alvarez, gained an understanding of their role, 15 people at Lehman Brothers and as well as I guess 15 their knowledge, their game plan, their work 16 16 copied to Bill Fox of Alvarez & Marsal seeking streams, the staffing of the engagement, just a 17 17 to confirm and I guess enhance my understanding general understanding of what they had to work 18 of a conversation that we had on October 3, 18 with, and figure out how to, we could work 19 Friday October 3, 2008 concerning my 19 together in this case to a common goal of 20 maximizing the value for the unsecured 20 understanding of the JP Morgan Chase creditors. 21 21 transaction, transactions. 22 22 Q. Do you recall whether that initial Q. My 5 understanding of the transaction was, in North 5 Q. September 24? 6 America anyhow, substantially all of the legacy 6 A. Correct. 7 Lehman Brothers employees were retained by Q. And who participated in that September 24 meeting to the best of your recollection? Barclays as part of the transaction. 8 9 The people that were left were the 9 A. John Suckow was the person we met with 10 10 former management who I guess they were probably from A&M. There may have been one or two other 11 11 people from A&M. There were 13 myself, Sam Star, perhaps Michael Eisenband, I 13 people that operated the aircraft. There were 14 people who were in charge of the services, don't recall, and maybe one or two other more 14 15 building services that kind of thing, coffee 15 junior staff. I don't particularly recall right 16 16 and -now. 17 17 From Houlihan's side, I know Ann O. Let me see if I can abbreviate this a 18 Miller was there, and maybe someone more senior 18 bit. Was there anything discussed at that 19 19 than her, I don't recall. I think it was initial meeting relating to the components of 20 20 probably Michael Fazio. Yes, I believe that was the subject of 19 20 roles, and then we also got, were getting this e-mail. That came up in the context of 20 involved -- got involved in certain work streams 21 trying to understand JP Morgan's role in this 21 22 22 like real estate and derivatives, et cetera. whole situation. There was some discussion of 23 23 Houlihan's role was transactions, the fact that, it was said in this e-mail, that 24 24 there was a Fed repo that Barclays stepped into anything and everything transactions. A. Now, I should, just to clarify, most of the positions we received and assessed the value of would not, would not have been held in Barclays' trading systems at that time because the majority of the positions, or a large part of them, they were all U.S. stocks, and a lot of them were illiquid and names that we just would not have been trading at that time.

In addition, we didn't have significant cash eq. or we didn't have a cash equity business at that time. We had an equity derivative business. By definition, we would have been trading the more liquid names, IBM being an example.

Q. There were a number of positions already in SOPHIS; is that correct? I'm not asking percentage-wise. There were, there were

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell some, correct?

A. Did we hold stock positions in SOPHIS? Yes.

Q. Prior to the acquisition?

A. Yes. For the purposes principally of hedging, delta hedging our equity derivative portfolio.

Q. So my question is really as simple as, for those positions already in SOPHIS, was the same price applied for purposes of valuing those securities that were acquired from Lehman?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. Yes, the same last price at exchange close.

Q. And was the same bid/offer applied? MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. At the time, as I said before -- well, firstly, all positions within the firm are assessed for bid/offer, and our definition of "fair value" within the firm, in line with the accounting standards, is that we need to mark long positions to a bid value.

Given at that time we did not have a cash equity business and all stock positions would have been used to delta hedge our equity derivative portfolio, that is, to effectively flatten our equity exposure so we have a zero sensitivity to the stock price, we wouldn't have been taking explicit bid/offer provision on equities; we would have been applying bid/offer to the derivative portfolio based on the derivative risk factors.

Q. A price for an existing position within SOPHIS could have a different price than what it was priced for for purposes of the acquisition accounting of the Lehman transaction; is that correct?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. What I'm saying is that we would not have been holding the position in SOPHIS as an outright position. Any positions held in SOPHIS would have been held as part of a derivative portfolio to delta hedge that portfolio. So, in considering the valuation of those positions, you need to consider the valuation of that derivative portfolio.

If I delta hedge a derivative book with stock, ultimately it doesn't matter where TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell I'm valuing that stock because I'm delta neutral to the valuation of that stock. So whether I value a range of prices ultimately, the purpose of holding that stock position is to delta hedge the book. There's not going to be a valuation impact.

Q. Can you say definitively that there are no overlapping equities that were not held by Barclays at the time of the acquisition that was not acting as a hedge?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.
A. I can't talk definitively to the, now, to the characteristics of the whole portfolio. What I can tell you is we did not have a cash equity business at that point in time, and I've been quite clear about that. We have what we called the equity derivatives business.

That means we were not principally engaged in trading cash equities. We were principally engaged in trading equity derivatives, and any cash equity positions on our books would have been there specifically to hedge the delta risk on the book.

Can I tell you what that list of

Q. And what did your group do with those BoNY prices?

A. Not a great deal. We were asked to independently assess or price test the value of the listing of securities, not to principally assess whether a BoNY price was correct, but to assess the fair value of a list of securities. We would have done that by obtaining independent sources as part of our normal practice.

Q. Would a Lehman price or a BoNY price be an example of another available price point that could be used in a valuation of the securities?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

price from a file in assessing an independent valuation of something is our job is to assess it independently. In order to do that, I need to understand what independent external data sources I'm using, where they come from, and what they represent.

Now, a price in a file that says this is the value BoNY has in a system, I have no understanding of what that price represents. I have no understanding of how BoNY derives that price. I could say the same of Lehman Brothers. I have no visibility on what that data is, so I would not use it in making an independent assessment.

Q. Is it your understanding that no securities are kept on Barclays' books at a price that has been ascribed by its custodian, BoNY?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. I'm not aware of anywhere that happens within my agreement, within what I know of the business. In our day-to-day monthly work, we don't look at custodian values as part of our price testing analysis.

 - A. Illiquid?
 - Q. Yes.
 - A. Correct.
- Q. For any illiquid equity securities within the equity portfolio, where did your group look to gather data for purposes of marking those securities?
- A. We used the standard sources that we would use within the firm to mark equities. So we went principally to Reuters, being our main source, looked for an exchange closing or last price. In some cases, we may have referenced Bloomberg. Potentially there are other sources. I don't recall the full list.

Q. I'm trying to understand what those standard procedures are. Are those standard procedures that if a cash equity is acting as a hedge to, for instance, a derivatives portfolio, no bid/offer adjustment would be taken in those instances?

A. As I said previously, our cash equity positions prior to the transaction were all acting as hedges for the derivative portfolio, in which case the application of fair value and bid/offer adjustments for all that derivative portfolio would be done on a portfolio level on a risk-parameter basis. Stocks would not be looked at in isolation. They would be looked at as part of that portfolio.

Q. If it is an equity position that has an observable market price on Bloomberg and Reuters and it's acting as a hedge to a derivatives portfolio, would there be a bid/offer adjustment to that equity position or not if you looked that CUSIP up in SOPHIS?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. As I said, we would apply bid/offer TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580 Page 71

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell provisions to the portfolio while looking at the portfolio risk factors as a whole. To the extent the stock position is there to delta hedge the derivative portfolio, there would be a zero or small residual delta risk position.

The principal risk factors through which we would take a bid/offer adjustment would be things like volatility or Vega exposure, Epsilon or dividend exposure. This is the standard practice the way we would assess fair value and assess bid/offer provisions for a derivative book.

Q. But you did not look at whether or not the equity positions that were transferred from Lehman to Barclays were hedged at the time that you were -- that you undertook the valuation of the securities; is that correct?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. I did not look at whether the portfolio was hedged in our analysis.

Q. Do you know, for purposes of what the mark would have been in SOPHIS for any of the equity positions on September 23, how those marks were arrived at?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. What positions are we talking about?
- Q. We're talking about the equity positions that were transferred from Lehman to Barclays. As I understand it, your group worked on valuations for the opening day balance sheet; is that correct?
 - A. That is correct.
- Q. With respect to SOPHIS and the values that would be entered in SOPHIS on September 22 or September 23, take your pick --
 - A. Uh-huh.
 - Q. -- where do those values come from?

A. One point to clarify is I'm not sure those positions were booked in SOPHIS on September 22 or 23 or 24. It took a period of time just to book the population into our systems, and that was not -- it wasn't a short period of time. It took some time because of the difficulties of things like establishing standard data, et cetera.

To the extent the positions were booked in SOPHIS, they would be valued using standard pricing feeds which SOPHIS receives on HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell a daily basis, for example, from Reuters.

Q. And what sort of bid/offer adjustment would be taken on the positions once they do get booked into SOPHIS?

MR. THOMAS: Objection.

A. Bid/offer adjustments are something that are assessed generally outside of the trading systems on a periodic basis, be that monthly, be that quarterly. It's an off-line, separate calculation.

So on the day that you book a position into a trading book, you don't book a bid/offer reserve into the trading system with that position. It's something that necessarily, because of the way things operate, is done separately.

Q. And what determines whether that bid/offer reserve is booked on a monthly versus a quarterly basis, for instance?

A. I think, generally, it would be done on a monthly basis.

Q. For purposes of generating month-end --

- A. As I said before, I know we analyzed various days' data. I don't recall.
- Q. And do you recall who made the decision to ultimately use a September 22 close date as opposed to a September 19 closing date?
- A. I don't recall a specific person making a specific decision. I recall that we were instructed, for want of a better word, that we should be trying to obtain a valuation for the open of September 22.

As I say, I think the most reasonable data point to look at for that is the close of business September 22. I know -- my belief this is something that was discussed extensively with our auditors, which is something which they supported and agreed was the appropriate, most reasonable thing to do.

Q. Are you aware that the closing date is defined within the Asset Purchase Agreement governing the transaction as 12:01 A.M. on September 22?

- Q. For example, if you were valuing a security in a different time zone where the valuation date would be -- let's pick September 30th, and you would have no or little information other than from markets that opened -- an opening price on October 1, let's say.

Would you use that kind of ex post information in a valuation exercise?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- Q. Would you expect it to be different if different dates were being used to calculate the bid/offer adjustment?
- A. Potentially, but a lot of factors would go into determining that.
- Q. Could you identify what factors would go into identifying if the date would play a role in affecting the bid/offer adjustment to be taken?
- A. Well, given the position is the same, and that's going to be the largest driver of the bid/offer is the position on the book, and the only change would be how you interpret or calculate a bid/offer spread.

MR. THOMAS: Objection. Form.

A. This suggests, based on the closing last price information that we had available, that the movement in the value of the positions between 9/19 and 9/22 was $304 million.

Q. And so based off of a move of $304 million, would you not say that the market for those positions you were valuing was up on September 19 as opposed to where it was by the close of business on September 22?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form. That's a different question.

A. I still think this number has no bearing on whether the market was up or down on September 19. It says nothing about where the market was on that day.

A. From my recollection, sources used to obtain closing or last price information for 9/19 would have been the same as those used for 9/22.

Q. And do you recall what those sources were?

A. I believe our principal source would be Reuters. The reason for that is it's the principal source of equity pricing information within Barclays Capital. In addition, we may have used Bloomberg, for instance, we may have used that, or other sources that were available to us. I don't recall specifically, but I expect the majority were Reuters.

The first step was to attempt to query bid/offer spread information for the portfolio as of 9/22. In doing that, using Reuters, which is our principal data source which we use within Barclays, we had coverage of something like 450 to 500 names of a portfolio here which is something like 3500 names.

The thing to know about that sample and why that sample is not representative of the portfolio and why you would not just, for instance, take an average of that sample, is that that spread information would have been available for the more liquid names within the portfolio.

What that means is that spread information would have been much lower for those names than for the names that we could not observe at that time, so any average based on that level would be substantially lower than the true bid/offer that was applicable to the portfolio as of that date.

Now, to adjust for that, we at some point in December have looked at a live market TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580 bid/offer data where we have a much better coverage, and I think in that sample we were able to get something like 2,000, 2100 names, something like that, I don't know the exact number, but it covered a much larger proportion of the population. So from a market value perspective, it covered something like 80 percent of the outstanding market value of the portfolio.

That is a much better average because it covers much more of the portfolio, but then you have the issue that you're looking at an average of market data from December as opposed to September. So we've gone through a process to calculate, effectively, a rebasing or a benchmarking or a basis-type adjustment to understand how the markets moved between September 22 and I believe December 22 when we queried the larger population of data.

On that basis, we come up with a ratio to reflect how the market generally has become more or less liquid, and in this case, it reflected the fact that spreads had become narrower in December as opposed to September.

I think the factor we looked at was a little over 2, something like 2.2, that is to say the spreads that we observed for a specific position in September, where we had data also observable for those positions in December, the spreads we observed in September were larger by a factor of, on average, about 2.2.

So we used that factor to then take our December average and estimate a rescale, a rebenchmarked, rebased average to apply to the portfolio in September. Having done that, we have arrived at the appropriate bid/offer spread to apply to the portfolio in September.

O. And when did this methodology come about? Was it in December at the time that you queried for the December live sample?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. We were doing work on this before then, but it was very much an iterative process. So, as I said, as a first step, we looked to get as much information as we could from September and what average did that imply for us, and that was a first cut at the number.

Q. And what --

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

A. It soon became apparent that, well, no, if we think about this, this isn't the most appropriate number because look at the stocks that are in our sample. It's the S&P 500 names or whatever that have been extremely liquid that have much tighter spreads. The sample where we don't have data is clearly the less liquid stuff, and if you go and look at live market spreads now, yes, there are much wider spreads. So it was an evolving process.

Q. And between the acquisition date in September and December when you changed your bid/offer methodology, what were you seeing as the number to be taken as a bid/offer adjustment?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. I'm not sure what you mean by the question in terms of what changed. I'm not --
- Q. I'm asking the percentage bid/offer adjustment, how did it compare to the one ultimately employed using the December live sample that was not generated until December or later when that data was obtained?

MR. THOMAS: Objection.

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. To take into account the liquidity, the relative availability of data, the composition of the portfolio, we used all data available to us. That included referencing data where we could from September. It also included referencing data from December to come up with, as I've said, an effective benchmark or basis adjustment between those two dates.

We could not query live data for September 22 because it was after the fact that we were trying to do this.

Q. But the only available live data is data almost three months after the acquisition?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. No, I'm saying there was a lot going on at this particular point in time, and clearly, you know, the sole responsibility of our group and what we were doing in that intervening period was not to calculate a bid/offer adjustment.
- O. And so the calculation of a bid/offer adjustment was not something that was undertaken until December, at which point the only

- A. How did what compare to that? Sorry.
- Q. How did whatever methodology you were using to calculate the bid/offer adjustment prior to December differ from that which was ultimately used employing December data?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. I don't recall at any point that we were using a different methodology. We did not calculate the bid/offer adjustment as of -- as of on the 22nd of September, we did not go and calculate a bid/offer adjustment and then at a later date revise that. That's not the way this happened.

Q. But you're not telling me you waited until December to calculate a bid/offer adjustment, right?

A. I'm saying the valuation, the opening balance sheet valuation, the work to come up with a fair value that was appropriate was undertaken over a period of time. That period of time was a few months.

Q. But the data that was ultimately used is data that was obtained months after the acquisition; is that correct?

A. I'm not sure exactly at what point we first started calculating a bid/offer adjustment. The first point or the point at which we clearly decided we needed to rebenchmark it to get a better estimate I believe was sometime in December, and I recall there were a couple of different sampling dates in December that we used.

Q. How long is live data available for after the live event?

MR. THOMAS: Objection.

TSG Reporting - Worldwide

A. What I would consider the definition of "live data" is we go to Reuters during trading hours and take a live snap of current bid/offer in the market. 30 seconds later, you can have a slightly different bid/offer and a HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell slightly different set of live data. It's live. It's ticking constantly. That's the definition of it.

By doing that, you ensure the data that you get represents a true bid/offer that's quoted in the market at a particular time. So a simultaneous bid and offer that's out there in the market at one point in time rather than a bid and offer that potentially, you know, are being quoted at different times, which wouldn't represent a true spread in the market.

Q. But how is a bid/offer in the market three months after the Lehman acquisition more representative of a true bid/offer than the data that was available at the time of the actual sale transaction?

MR. THOMAS: Objection. Form. A. I think the distinction to make is the data that was available at the time of the transaction, if you could go and snap live market data on September 22, you would do that and that would be more representative, but that's not something we were able to do because we were looking at this after the fact.

877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

So the only information for 9/22 that you could get is the closing bid-ask data, and that's not available for a very wide proportion of stocks. It was only available for I think I said 450 or so stocks, and that population of 450 stocks represents serious selection bias if you're trying to use that as a sample to be an indicator for the spread you should apply to your population because it represents the most liquid names within the sample.

So it would lead to a significant understatement of any bid/offer spread that would apply to the portfolio. The only reasonable way to get around that was to look at live market data that we had available and try to do some sort of rebasing between the dates.

Q. Do you have any idea how the December snapshot of live data would compare to what a live snapshot would have looked like in September?

A. We have estimated based on the data that we had available. So anywhere we had, for the sample of positions where we had a closing spread for 9/22, we compared that spread to the HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell live spread we had in December. So we're comparing like for like the same name, and we're saying for this stock what was the bid/offer spread in September, what was the bid/offer spread in December, and on that basis we can calculate ratio of how spreads on average have moved between the two dates. And that gives us this ratio of this factor of something like 2.2. That is to say they were narrower by that factor in December than they were in September.

Q. Putting before you what has been marked as Deposition Exhibit 824.

(Exhibit 824, a document bearing Bates Nos. BCI-EX-00255172, with attachment, marked for identification, as of this date.)

- Q. Have you had a chance to look it over?
- A. Yes. Quite helpfully describes what I just said.
- Q. So Deposition Exhibit 824, which is Bates-stamped BCI-EX-00255172, the first page, is an Excel spreadsheet that we have printed out, and if you would turn to the summary page, and look at that "Implied Provision" line totaling $382,174,982, do you see that?

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

A. Yes.

- Q. Does that tie out to the previous document we were looking at, Deposition 641, the bid/offer, the PCG B/O September 22 total of 382 million?
- A. Yes, it would appear to be the same number.
- Q. And does the 8,852,000,000 number listed as total asset value reflect the total of tested and untested equities?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. I would assume so.

- Q. And the use of December 18 live data as opposed to any other date in December is because that's the date the decision was made to go out and take a snapshot of live data; is that correct?
- A. I believe we took a snapshot on a few different days in December. They were all broadly representative and similar. So December 18 was the day that we chose. I don't recall exactly why that day was chosen.
- Q. Do you recall what other dates live snapshots were taken?

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

- A. No, not specifically.
- Q. Were live snapshots taken at different times of the day?
 - A. I believe they would have been.
- Q. And who ultimately made the decision as to which live snapshot to use for the bid/offer calculation?
- A. That would have been taken by myself in conjunction with other people, other members of the team.
- Q. If you turn to the page behind that's reflective of the Excel tab titled all data.
 - A. Okav.
- Q. Can you explain why only approximately 400 CUSIPs have a reported bid-ask spread on September 22 and approximately 2000 have a reported bid-ask spread on December 18, or tell me that that's what you have already explained?
- A. Okay. That's kind of what I've explained, I guess. It's not the last data that we had for 9/22.
- Q. And could you explain the process again of how the data from December was backdated to the September date?

Page 127

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. For the population of positions where we had spread data available on both observation dates, we calculated a ratio for a relative change I believe as it's defined on the spreadsheet. We then looked at the average of those changes across that sample of 400 or so names where data was available for both, and we have used that as an indication of how market bid/offer spreads have changed between those two dates.
- Q. And has this methodology of backdating a bid/offer adjustment ever been employed by Barclays before?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to the form. Misstates the testimony.

- A. We apply bid/offer provisions to the portfolio. We applied similar techniques of averaging to calculate spreads that are applicable for those bid/offer adjustments, and we do that as part of our ongoing function in our role.
- Q. Does the provisioning policy that was in place at the time specifically provide for

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell calculating bid/offer adjustments based on future data and then backdating it to a date prior?

MR. THOMAS: Objection. Form. Mischaracterizes the testimony.

A. I don't believe, to answer your question, the bid/offer -- sorry, the provisioning policy mentions anything in relation to backdating.

What we did in this example is the most reasonable thing to do to achieve an appropriate estimate of the bid/offer provision on the portfolio as of that point in time.

Using the information we had available, it would have been inappropriate to rely purely on the September spread information because it represented a biased sample, a non-representative sample. It would have significantly understated the true bid/offer on the portfolio at that time.

So it would have been incorrect to either not calculate a bid/offer because we didn't have the data or to calculate based on a sample of data which is not representative of

And we believe that gets us to the best estimate, the most reasonable estimate of the appropriate fair value.

Q. Why did it take three months from the sale transaction to determine that what had previously been pulled was inadequate?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. As I said before, we didn't spend three months looking at the bid/offer calculation. We did not -- or, I did not start actively calculating an opening balance sheet value as of 9/22 and then spend three months. There was a lot of other stuff happening at this point in time.

So it's not a case of, you know, we spent three months and it took us three months to determine that this was the appropriate course of action.

Q. This bid/offer methodology totaled TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell almost $400 million, which you would agree is not inconsequential, correct?

- A. It's definitely not inconsequential.
- Q. And do you recall what amount of the previous data using the 400 or so observable data points for September would have yielded?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form of the question. Vague.

- A. I don't recall the exact number, no.
- Q. And do you recall what the average -let me rephrase the question.

Looking at the numbers on the summary page again --

A. Yes.

O. -- if you could walk me through where it says average spread from December 18 data, 1.93 percent?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is that 1.93 percent reflective of?

A. It's reflective of the average spread from December 19 data, so the live data that we created for bid-ask spreads as of December 18. That's the average. It's described above how

Page 133

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell it's calculated, excluding data above 50 percent

Q. What is the 2.3 next to average ratio of spreads, September to December?

A. 2.23?

Q. Sorry, 2.23, yes.

A. Is for the 400 observations, 400 or so observations where we had data for both dates. As I've described, that represents the relative change or ratio on those positions between those two dates.

Q. So 2.23 is the ratio that was calculated?

A. Yes.

Q. And can you tell me what the 4.32 percent number next to "Applied Sep. Average Spread" is?

A. I believe that's just the multiplication of the previous two numbers, so that represents the December spread, which covers most of the population, rescaled based on the ratio, to give us an approximate September spread.

Q. So is the 4.32 percent number what is

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell applied in order to generate the $382 million number?

A. That's correct.

- Q. And it's applied to which universe of equities within the equity portfolio that you covered?
- A. Everything that's not a convertible bond, I believe, would have been included.
- Q. So even for the 400 CUSIPs for which you did have data as of September, the backdating from December/September calculated spread was applied; is that correct?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

Mischaracterizes the testimony.

A. This spread was applied to all of the positions, including those positions where we had a spread observable from September. The reason for that is that we're applying an average methodology here. The reason we're applying an average methodology is for a significant portion of the portfolio we just did not have spread information available.

So for, I think reading from this, approximately 14 percent of the portfolio, which TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

A. Can you say that again?

- Q. Was any attempt made to adjust the value to remove the impact of market activity over the course of the day on September 22?
- A. What do you mean by "market activity" in that sense?
- Q. Market movements to any of the CUSIPs that were within the portfolio being valued in the "Total Equities and Convertibles" row using a 9/22 close price.
- A. No, I believe this represents the closing market value as of 9/22.
- Q. And this would be the number that would roll into Barclays' acquisition balance sheet; is that correct?
- A. I believe the number that would roll into Barclays' acquisition balance sheet would also reflect the bid/offer, which is in the column next to it.
 - Q. And what's the total of that?
- A. So I think that the second "PCG Value Sep. 22" column.

Page 143

Q. And what would the total be that would roll into the acquisition balance sheet for the equities and convertibles?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. Taking as read from this, because I can't remember the numbers, I'm not familiar with the actual final document, 9.33 billion is the number here.
- Q. Did you or your group at your direction seek to obtain any market information from the foreign markets and indices that would have been available between close of business on September 19 and the September 22 opening of the market?
- A. Just to clarify, you're saying in relation to the U.S. close from Sep. 19 to the U.S. Open on Sep. 22 did we look at what you call foreign markets? You mean non-U.S., is that --
- Q. Non-U.S. would be one way of looking at it, but we could also say from UK close to UK open on the 19th to the 22nd.
 - A. Okay.
 - Q. Were any, any data points collected

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

Page 144

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell and analyzed in determining the move in the market from September 19 to September 22?

- A. From my recollection, they were not.
- Q. Your group was also responsible for valuing convertibles, correct?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. And what would be included in the convertibles category?
- A. This would principally be convertible bonds. I believe it may have included some convertible preferred securities as well.
- Q. And do you know what the distinction is between tested and untested convertibles?
- A. "Tested" would imply where we can obtain an independent market data quote. "Untested" would imply that we could not do that.
- Q. And why would there be no bid/offer adjustment for convertible securities?
- A. The price information that we obtained for convertible securities would be in a slightly different format, so we would automatically get a bid and an ask and so we would mark to the bid. Therefore, no need to TSG Reporting Worldwide 877-702-9580 take an adjustment just because of the data that we get.

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell

- Q. And where does that data come from?
- A. I believe most of the convertible bond data would have been sourced through Bloomberg and would represent broker quotes, market quotes, indications from interdealer brokers, which would be in line with our standard practice for how we value convertible bonds and price test convertible bonds on an ongoing basis.
- Q. Was your group responsible for valuing equity-linked notes and warrants?
 - A. Yes. As listed on here, yes.
- Q. And what would fall under the category "Untested Lehman Issued ELNs"?

MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

- A. I can't recall exactly what's in each of these categories, but two categories here, Lehman issued ELNs and warrants would both represent some form of Lehman paper.
- Q. And "untested," does it have a similar meaning as with the convertible bonds, meaning that there would be no observable market price?

- Q. Above the untested Lehman-issued ELNs row, there's a row for untested warrants, which is also valued at zero. Do you know why those warrants were valued at zero?
- A. Given we deem the BoNY information unreliable for the Lehman-issued warrants and the ELNs, as we've just discussed, and I think given if you look at the line above that where it says "untested equities," where we have shown the BoNY value to be significantly wrong, so 9 million of equities per the BoNY files were

A. The data source I believe that's used by Zmijewski in that report is Bloomberg. I believe, having looked at the data that's available from Bloomberg, that it is flawed, that there are problems with data integrity. I believe these are highlighted by Zmijewski in his report when he discusses the fact that, in certain circumstances, he gets negative prices which he has to exclude. In TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580 43 (Pages 166 to 169)

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell certain other circumstances, he gets negative bid/offer spreads, which he also has to exclude.

Now, the existence of negative bid/offer spreads in particular would lead me to have concerns about whether the data that's available in Bloomberg represents a true bid/offer, executable bid/offer that is available in the market at a point in time because you could not have a negative bid/offer in the market. It doesn't exist. Couldn't exist.

Q. And --

2.1

A. So the use of the Bloomberg data I think is flawed. I think this doesn't just apply to the illiquid stocks.

We had a look at this, I had a look at this after I read the Zmijewski paper, and for some of the more liquid stocks in the portfolio, I think we looked at -- looking at the largest 15 positions, just glanced at Bloomberg data for a random sample of data, and can clearly see zero bid/offer spreads and negative bid/offer spreads based on closing price information. So I would question the integrity of that data of TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell Bloomberg.

Now, the reason we used Reuters is not because I didn't trust Bloomberg data in September 2008, but we used Reuters data because that's our principal data provider within the bank for equities data. Now, when we queried information, we were able to obtain it for, as I say, 450, 500 names, something like that.

We didn't observe examples of negative spreads. We didn't observe anything that led us to think there was any problem with the data that we were using, any issues over the integrity of that data. We just accepted that, okay, it's after the fact here. The availability of good closing bid-ask data is going to be limited for this population after the fact because it's not the same as getting live bid-ask data.

So, coincidental to the fact that he could query a similar number that we could query in December, I can't really talk to that, but I can say I think there are significant flawed assumptions in what he's doing, and by excluding certain data and just ignoring it and carrying TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

TSG Reporting - Worldwide 87

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell on with the data that's there, that doesn't seem like a reasonable thing to do to me to arrive at an appropriate number.

- Q. In turning back to 819, where the 2100 of the 3700 securities had an average bid/offer of 2.64 percent?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Do you see that?
 - A. Yes, I do.
- Q. How does that, if you then turn to 824, Deposition Exhibit 824, where the average spread for December 18 data is listed as only 1.93 percent --
 - A. Yes.
- Q. -- do you, from the difference of 2.64 percent to 1.93 percent, think that Mr. Morton's e-mail is referencing the availability of bid/offer spread information on Bloomberg as opposed to the December spread information that was ultimately used?
- A. No, I don't think he's doing that. I think what you see in that e-mail, which is dated December 12, which is clearly before December 18, which is in the second file, would TSG Reporting Worldwide 877-702-9580

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL - Washtell be based on Reuters data. Because we were not querying, as far as I recall, bid/offer data from Bloomberg.

I believe one potential reason for the difference, and again, I didn't write the e-mail and I can't recall exactly the details, this is conjecture, but potentially it was that it was one of the sample days that we looked at earlier in December, as I said earlier, hence a slightly different number.

It may also have been because in his final dataset we excluded spreads that were wider than 50 percent, and I'm not sure if that is represented in this 2.64 which is being referenced by Marcus. I definitely don't believe it was because Marcus is looking at Bloomberg.

- Q. Again, looking at 824, and the population covered by spread data is 86.1 percent; is that correct?

Q. And did that expression by the Barclays traders impact the valuation that you and your group undertook of those positions?

A. No, because we still independently assessed the fair value. We still sourced the data that we used to arrive at that fair value independently. We didn't rely on the trading desk for any valuations of those securities.

Q. But the trading desks were reviewing and commenting on what they felt should be done with the positions, according to this e-mail; is that correct?

A. According to this e-mail, it sounds like the trading desks are commenting that they think the BoNY values are not correct. It also sounds like at the time I wrote this e-mail we did not have complete coverage of the TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580 convertible population from the data that we had sampled at that point in time.

So it sounds like we had incomplete information. The trading desk had expressed their view, but that would not have had any bearing on ultimately the valuations that we used because they were based on independent data which we, as I say, obtained independently and independently from the trading desk.

Q. Mr. Washtell, I'm putting before you what has been marked as Deposition Exhibit 823. (Exhibit 823, a document bearing Bates Nos. BCI-EX-(S)-179808 through 179821, marked for identification, as of this date.)

A. Do I need to read all of this?

Q. If you will start at the top e-mail from Jerry Shi to yourself and dated September 25, subject: "Price testing -Converts/Eqty/Preference," and read over that e-mail as well as the attached, if you want to turn to the attachment.

A. So read all of it, yeah?

A. I can read it. It'll just take me five minutes. Are you going to focus on a specific part?

Q. Yes. You don't have to read the whole attachment. Let's just start with the e-mail. And do you see where Mr. Shi writes, "Most of the cash equity products have observable market prices"?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you agree with that statement? MR. THOMAS: Objection to form.

A. I don't recall specifics, but if Jerry is saying for most cash equity products we have observable market prices, and I believe from the analysis we have been through today, for most of the positions we were able to obtain data. So that doesn't sound like an unreasonable statement.

Q. And is what Mr. Shi has attached for TSG Reporting - Worldwide 877-702-9580

A. That is certainly what it appears to be.

2	Mr. Yang, I'm going to hand you a	2	Q. Before you continue, let me just
3	copy of what's previously marked as	3	ask a couple questions. Who is Marty Malloy?
4	Exhibit 144 which is one of the documents	4	A. He was a senior member of the repo
5	referenced in the notice 30(b)(6) notice.	5	business at Barclays.
6	A. Um-hum.	6	Q. That's separate and distinct from
7	Q. If you would mind taking a minute	7	PMTG?
8	and let me know when you've had a chance to	8	A. Yes.
9	look at the document.	9	Q. Okay. And his duties generally
10	A. Yeah. I'm ready.	10	involve repo transactions.
11	Q. You're ready? Okay.	11	A. Right. Right.
12	Have you ever seen this document	12	Q. Okay. And then when you said
13	before?	13	Gerry you're talking about Gerard LaRocco?
14	A. Yes, I have.	14	A. Right.
15 16	Q. What is it?	15	Q. And his role at Barclays is what?
16	A. Well, it's an e-mail from Marty	16	A. I believe he was and is the chief
17	Malloy who was sort of the senior member in	17	administrative officer of the Americas.
18 19	the repo group at Barclays to Gerard and	18 19	Q. Okay. And do you know why he
20	Stephen. And it is I suppose keeping in mind that Marty is not a trader of securities	20	would be interested in this type of analysis? A. I believe I believe that
01	and that's not what's done inside the repo	21	operations has some reporting role into him
21 22	area or operations area, obviously, I think	22	and this data would have come from the
23	this is his interpretation of the state of	23	operations side of things.
24	that I guess what we're calling the September	24	Q. Okay.
25	18th repo transaction.	25	A. But I'm not fully familiar with
	Page 2	n	Page 21
1	J. YANG - HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL		J. YANG - HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL
2	his role in the transaction.	2	Although, not including PMTG.
3 4	Q. And operations is also separate and distinct from PMTG?	3	Q. So he's a trader?
5	A. Yes, it is.	5	A. Yeah. Yeah. Or rather I think he's a supervised traders.
6	Q. And you said Stephen, you meant	6	Q. Okay. And he supervises traders
7	Mr. King?	7	in an area of the business separate from PMTG?
8	A. Yes.	8	A. Yes.
9	Q. Who is Jacqui Stanley-Johns who is	9	Q. Okay. And his area is what?
10	a c.c. on this e-mail?	10	A. I believe they're a number of
11	A. I actually do not know.	11	principal investing businesses. What I mean
12	Q. Okay. You never heard of her	12	is our businesses that deploy the bank's
13	before?	13	capital to make investments. I don't know all
14	A. I don't know who he or she is.	14	of them. But I know
15	Q. Okay. You'll see above that	15	Q. I don't see your name on this
16	e-mail heading is another e-mail. I guess	16	e-mail. How is it that you're familiar with
17	that means that this was forwarded to someone	17	this e-mail?
18	else?	18	A. I believe this was subsequently
19	A. Oh, yes.	19	forwarded to me. I can't remember by who.
20	Q. Am I correct to say that Mr.	20	Since I know, you know, obviously a number of
21	LaRocco forwarded it to Mr. Keegan?	21	these folks.
22	A. That's what it looks like, yes.	22	Q. Okay. Do you recall when it was
23	Q. And who is Mike Keegan?	23	forwarded to you?
24	A. Mike Keegan ran a number of principal investing businesses at Barclays.	24 25	A. Not precisely. I would expect sometime not long after this.
25

3	Q. Okay. Do you know why it was forwarded to you?	3	A. No, I was not.
4		4
5	A. Because I was tasked, you know, as	5	Q. Okay. Do you know who was?
6	one of the actual front office personnel which	6	A. I don't. I can only assume Marty
7	is to say traders who would start actually	7	Q. Okay. And you're just assuming
8	looking at these securities and trying to	8	that based on
9	understand what the portfolio was. And then, you know, as a result attempt to value it from	9
10	Barclays' perspective as well risk manage it.	10	A. I'm assuming that because he sent the e-mail and I don't see any other forwards.
11
12	Q. Okay. So just to understand what	12	Q. Do you know why he prepared this type of analysis?
1 2	I think you said, they're forwarding someone forwarded this to tell you the pools	13	A. Not precisely. I assume
1 4	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	14	because I suppose because this is the way
1 E	of securities that were going to be coming	15
13 14 15 16	into Barclays' system from the Lehman transaction; is that right?	16	he was thinking about the transaction. Q. Okay. Other than that, do you
17	A. I suppose it would have happened	17	have any understanding of why he prepared this
18	already at this point. But, yeah. I think to	18	analysis?
19	at least apprise me of what other	19	A. It's a very general question. I
20	representations were being made about this	20	mean, I could he was involved because he
21	portfolio.	21	was in the repo on the repo side I think
22	Q. Okay.	22	the actual execution of the transaction would
23	A. For this transaction inside the	23	have you know, the legal form of this
23 24	firm.	24	transaction was something that he routinely
25	Q. Okay. So you were not involved in	25	did. So I think he was probably looked to as

1 2	sort of, you know, one of the bank's resources	2	A. Probably the same day.
3	and in sort of evaluating the actual execution	3	Q. Okay. And do you recall your
4	of the transaction.	4	discussions with Mr. King about this e-mail?
5	Q. Okay. You're surmising this based	5	MR. STERN: Excuse me. The same
6	on his position in this e-mail; is that right?	6	day being the 19th of September?
7	A. Right. Right.	7	A. The same day being the 19th.
8	Q. Okay. You don't have any specific	8	I don't recall specifically what
9	knowledge about why he might have been	9	we would have to what end we were
10	preparing this analysis?	10	discussing it.
11	A. I don't know who asked him for	11	Q. Do you recall generally?
12	this or what question this is in response to,	12	A. I would imagine that we were
13	no.	13	looking at the numbers and, you know, our I
14	Q. Okay. Do you recall any	14	guess we were looking at the numbers. We
15	discussions within Barclays about this	15	would probably have been trying to evaluate
16	analysis presented on this e-mail?	16	sort of critically which of these numbers were
17	A. Certainly certainly we did	17	reliable and whether or not, you know, the
18	discuss it. You know, I mean	18	transaction looked like matched what we
19	Q. Who did you discuss it with?	19	expected it to be.
20	A. Probably primarily Stephen King.	20	Q. And what did you conclude based on

4	A. Oh. As I just said, I don't want	3	You can answer if you know. A. I don't necessarily know what's
5	to use the word value because, you know, BoNY's function in this thing, they're a	5	customary in repo.
6	custodian. They're not in the business of	6	Q. Okay. Have you ever been involved
7	trading securities. They're not even really	7	in any other repo transactions before?
8	in the business of valuing securities. They	8	A. Yes.
9	just hold assets. And they have	9	Q. And did the custodians place a
10	infrastructure that attempts to estimate, if	10	value on it?
11	you will, you know, the value of securities.	11	MR. STERN: Objection to the form.
12	But I think it's considered	12	A. The repos I would have been

4	Q column.	4	received?
5	It says 1.7 of this was posted to	5	A. Well, in fact, I know that some of
6	BoNY?	6	it wasn't because that 7 billion repo cash
7	Do you see that?	7	wasn't in the long you know, eventually. I
8	A. Yep, I see that.	8	don't know what people knew at the time.
9	Q. What does that mean?	9	Q. Okay. But over that weekend or on
10		10	Friday the 19th, the 7 billion had not been
11		11	received?
12		12	MR. STERN: Objection to the form.
13		13	A. I don't know.
14		14	Q. Don't know? Okay.
15		15	And do you have any understanding

9	MR. STERN: Objection to the form.	9	Let me hear the question again.
10	A. I don't think haircut is a very	10	You're just totally ignoring his

12	Q. Okay.	12	despite his testimony.
13	A. But I don't think it's a very	13	MR. HINE: No, I'm not, Jack.
14	precise term. But I do agree that it's sort	14	MR. STERN: Yes, you are.
15	of the excess of this sort of number, 52.19,	15	MR. HINE: No, I'm not.
16		16	MR. STERN: It's very misleading
17		17	and the record will reflect that
18		18	MR. HINE: And you can stop
19		19	coaching the witness.
20		20	MR. STERN: I'm not coaching the

3	far.	3	A. I wouldn't characterize them as
4	MR. HINE: Let's read the	4	excess. The reason is because I've already

9	doing. You know very well what you're	9	So then the problem is the 45 of
10	· · ·	10	course is just a dollar number. It's an
11			amount of cash that Barclays provided whereas
12		12	52.9 isn't an equivalent. It's a proxy.
13		13	So I don't think colloquially
14		14	you know, it says excess collateral here. But
15		15	it's not really excess in the sense that you
16		16	have more. It's just the mathematical
17	3 C	17	difference obviously. And that's meant to
18	, C	18	you know, that's meant to do all kinds of
19	1 3 3	19	things including adjust for uncertainty about
20		20	what the actual value of the securities is.
21		21	Q. So you take issue with Mr.

12	usable.	12	A. No, no.
13	Q. Usable. What do you mean by that?	13	Q. Okay. So this is
14	A. Well, simply that the technical	14	A. Purely just copying CUSIPS and
15	issues that I identified previously, he had	15	amounts out of one you know, a number of

17	Q. The technical issues have to do	17	Q. Okay. So the correction of the
18	with just the listing of individual securities	18	technical issues that you mentioned did not
19	or	19	involve meetings with Lehman and reconciling
20	A. Yeah, yeah. The first technical	20	lists of securities; is that right?
21	issue was simply that a certain security might	21	A. No, no.
22	show up multiple times in the list.	22	Q. No, they did not?
23	Q. Okay.	23	A. No, they did not.

There was what I would think of as an updated version of this that was provided to us over the weekend which, you know, as I say, was eventually booked into all of the Barclays various Barclays systems and valued by the appropriate trading desk. Q. And that was provided by the ops people at Barclays? A. Yes. Q. So your department didn't create that second list? A. No, we didn't create that second list. Q. Okay. Can you read on the covering e-mail it says again, this is from Mr. Long. He says, "If you guys are comfortable with this list then let's send to Lehman for marks." A. Um-hum. Q. J. YANG - HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL did Barclays end up having the most concerns, if you will, about the pricing -- or about the marks BoNY had placed on the DTC securities?

A. Yes.

2.5

Q. Could I refer you back to Exhibit 351B. And I just wanted to ask you a question about -- well, let me just ask a lead-up question.

Have you ever heard the term Schedule A used in connection with the Barclays/Lehman transaction?

- A. Yes.
- Q. And what did you understand Schedule A to be?
- A. Schedule A was meant to be the securities that were acquired on -- that were received on September 18th as part of this assumed repo transaction.
- Q. Okay. And who prepared Schedule A?
- A. Like all things, it was a collaborative process. But I was involved in preparing part of it. But, in fact, the primary data source was Lehman. I believe we

Page 95

- J. YANG HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL reviewed what they gave us and reformatted it. But the data basically came from Lehman.
- Q. Okay. I guess my question is this master list that we talked about, Exhibit 351B, is that in any way an early version of Schedule A or a precursor to Schedule A?
- A. Conceptually this master list should have been similar. You know, it conceptually should have been Schedule A except we know that there are some issues with this list.
- Q. So did you -- when you eventually did receive Schedule A or a version of Schedule A, did you try to reconcile it against this master list?
- A. Well, this was -- master list was superseded by, you know, another list, another similar list. We did do a comparison. We did do a comparison but didn't have time to check it line by line.
- Q. You did a comparison between what and what?
 - A. Between what Lehman provided as

Page 96

J. YANG - HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL the draft Schedule A and what -- and successor to this master list that we had.

- Q. And by the successor you're talking about the one that the ops people provided you?
- A. Right. What I should clarify is when I -- the successor list is the list we actually worked off of. The terms of assign -- booking trades and assigning them to different desks for valuations or valuing it ourselves.

That list did not distinguish between securities received on Thursday as part of the repo and securities received subsequently. So including on Friday, the 19th.

So when we did the comparison between what Lehman provided us as the draft Schedule A, that list, of course they were different because they were meant to be different but we did do a comparison to see that -- you know, it seemed approximately correct.

Q. Okay. Just so I understand what

Page 97

J. YANG - HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL you're talking about, the successor list that you've been referring to that was prepared by the ops folks included more than just the securities that were transferred from the September 18th repo; is that right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. And then so did it include -- I believe we've previously discussed unencumbered assets that were transferred to Barclays. Was that included on that successor list, do you know?

A. Yes. Yes.

- Q. And does the number 1.9 billion in securities ring a bell with you in that regard?
- A. Yes. It does. But unfortunately it's not -- I believe -- what it means to me is the number that was suggested for the eventual total amount of unencumbered securities that Barclays might receive.
 - Q. Oh, okay.
 And Barclays didn't receive it?
 - A. Not to my knowledge.
 - Q. Are you saying they received some

	Page 98		Page 99

20		20	A. I should I think the thing to focus on is the time line. At 1:14 we were
20 21	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	21
22	 	22	just struggling to compile the securities that
23	MR. STERN: Well, the notice	23	we had received in. I knew that during the
23 24		24	day Friday traders at Barclays were talking to traders at Lehman. The problem is nobody else
25		25	had this list of securities. So I should

9	Q. Were you involved in those	9	between Barclays and Lehman traders about
10		10	marks on positions in general.
11		11	So one idea that we had was it
12		12	would not hurt to ask to send this to
13 14		13	people at Lehman and have them try to mark
15		14 15	this list of positions as well.
	A. I don't recall exactly what	16	Q. All right. So you were going to
16	positions they were talking about. I was	17	send this list to Lehman in the hopes that it
17 18		18	somehow would assist or get involved in that
		19	ongoing discussion between the traders that
19 20		20	you talked about? A. Rather the opposite. Hoping that
21		21	the Lehman traders would be able to assist us
22		22	or at least, you know, give us one more
23		23	reference point on this list of securities.
24		24	Q. And when you say "this list"
25		25	you're talking about 351B.
